CDM Electronics Is Now A Stocking Distributor For Amphenol NEXUS Technologies

Turnersville, NJ, September 6, 2022... CDM Electronics, an authorized distributor of Amphenol NEXUS Technologies, now stocks that manufacturer's tactical communications interconnects at their Turnersville, NJ location.

Amphenol NEXUS Technologies, a subsidiary of Amphenol Corporation, is one of the world's leading suppliers of interconnect products for military, public safety and commercial communications applications. CDM provides the full range of Amphenol NEXUS Technology's QPL'd MIL-DTL-55116 series, the all-new Ranger line, the groundbreaking miniaturized TAC range and unique waterproof breakaway connector group. CDM will also have available the full line of standard and military-spec MS25089 push-button switches in momentary (PTT) and push-pull actuation formats.

"The addition of Amphenol NEXUS Technologies' unique lines will round-out CDM's industry-leading tactical communications product mix", said Christina Harrison, Materials Manager at CDM, "with their push-button switches a welcomed new offering for our customers."

With the inclusion of the Amphenol NEXUS Technologies line, CDM will have over 300 different tactical communications interconnects available to support virtually every military and public safety radio platform. Anticipated combined inventory will have over 80,000 tactical communications connectors in stock at CDM's 130 American Boulevard location.
